CISRS INCREASES CPD PROVISION

By David Mosley, NASC Director of Training and CISRS Managing Director

CISRS has increased availability of CPD courses, in response to industry demand.

The rise in CPD training provision will be generated by allowing core scheme centres – those offering Pt1, Pt2 and Advanced CISRS courses at their main training centres – to deliver CPD at their network of facilities across the UK.

These centres must have sufficient space to house the inspection structures and carry out the mobile access tower module, suitably qualified instructors, and approval from CISRS prior to any training taking place.

This change has been made following a recent review of course availability and centre capacity, in which a shortage of CPD courses was identified in some areas. This increased availability is expected to alleviate this issue, however CISRS will continue to review the situation.

Please refer to the CISRS Training Centre listings here (<http://cisrs.org.uk/training-centres/>) for updates in centres available CISRS courses.
